

U. S. TO AID BUILDING TRADE

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

SHREVEPORT is stirred by a horrible crime. Tuesday night a mob of 5,000 fought its way into the lower levels of the skyscraper Caddo parish courthouse—but massed officers turned back the mob before it could reach the prisoner in the jail block on the top floor.

Younger Rival Bows to Putnam, Who Weds at 42

Famed Singer and Architect Close Thorton Series Articles

This is the sixth and last of a series on "Love Begins at 40," telling of prominent personages who found romance long after the years of their youth had passed.

"Love's like the measles," joked Douglas Jerrold, "all the worse when it comes late in life."

"Whaddya mean, worse?" cry the comparative oldsters who have been burning up the matrimonial speedway these last few months. "Better!"

Anyway, for better or for worse, the parade goes on, not only among the people of the stage, screen, society and literature, but in every other field, and in mixtures of all four.

For instance, there is a talented gentleman named George Palms-Putnam, who has been an explorer, publisher, and writer, but who is now perhaps best known because he is the husband of Amelia Earhart.

And Putnam did not allow the fact that he was 42 and had a fine grown woman cramp his style when he found he was in love with the famous flyer who was 10 years his junior.

In fact, Putnam was faced with some pretty strong competition in the form of an admirer who was more nearly Miss Earhart's own age.

But with the speed and power that is becoming a characteristic of those fifth and sixth decades, Putnam flashed in a winner.

Meets Future Bride
 His acquaintance with Miss Earhart (and she is still Miss Earhart, a firm Lucy Stoner, despite their marriage) began when she was chosen as the guest of honor on the ship's christening party, and became the first passenger of Wilmer Stultz and Lou woman to fly the ocean to the east.

Putnam was manager of the business details of the flight, and became much interested in the fair young passenger, so newly arrived in the flying game from teaching Chinese and Syrian children in a Boston settlement house. Miss Earhart had done some flying, but was making this perilous trip as a passenger only.

"There were plenty of admirers to greet her on her return, and one life-long friend had been particularly attentive. There were rumors of an engagement."

But Putnam won out, and the two stood up quietly in Putnam's old family home in Noank, Conn., far from the admiring thousands who were acclaiming Miss Earhart as the nation's premier woman flyer.

Shreveport Filled With Troops; Mob Fails at Lynching

Officers Beat Off Crowd of 5,000 Invading Courthouse

CONFESSES SLAYING

White Man Admits Brutal Murder of 16-Year-Old Girl

SHREVEPORT, La.—(AP)—Caddo parish's million-dollar courthouse and surrounding park was turned into a military reservation Wednesday.

Four companies of National Guardsmen who repulsed a howling mob Tuesday night stood by to further protect the confessed slayer of a 16-year-old school girl.

The last remnants of the crowd of 5,000 men and women who stormed the courthouse, yelling lynch threats at Fred Lockhart, 38-year-old artificial butterfly salesman, who was held on the top floor of the parish prison, dispersed before dawn.

Authorities took no chances of a renewal of disorder and the guardsmen pitched camp around the tall building Wednesday morning, patrolling the surrounding blocks with fixed bayonets.

Scores of heads were bruised and several dozen persons arrested in Tuesday night's rioting, which followed the announcement of Lockhart's confession that he lured Mae Griffin from her home and attacked and slew her.

Mob Storms Building
 SHREVEPORT, La.—(AP)—While the local National Guard company was mobilizing, a half-dozen officers armed with machine guns, rifles and tear gas bombs were entrenched Tuesday night on the second floor of the Caddo parish jail fighting back a howling mob that overpowered the front lines of officers and took command of the lower floor in their attempt to seize Fred Lockhart, a white man, who, officers said, confessed that he murdered Mae Griffin, 16-year-old girl.

Additional supplies of tear gas bombs were ordered as the mob toward midnight grew to an estimated 3,000 men with nearly 500 in the building, battling the officers in their attempt to climb to the jail on the seventh floor where Lockhart is confined.

Troops Mobilized
 Paris officers requested Adj. Gen. Ray H. Fleming at New Orleans and Gov. O. K. Allen to authorize the use of Company E, 156th Infantry at Shreveport. The troops were mobilized.

Lockhart, 38, a wandering vendor of artificial butterflies and trinkets, confessed, Sheriff T. R. Hughes said, after he had been grilled for hours. Lockhart, the sheriff said, admitted luring the young girl from her mother's home on the pretext of employing her as a companion for his wife and stabbed her to death when she rejected his improper advances.

The alleged confession was made after officers had identified blood-stained clothing as the property of Lockhart. The clothing was discovered Tuesday by D. D. Buzer, chief of police and four city detectives in a septic tank behind a shack in the "hobo jungle" section.

Questioned all day by officers seeking to identify the slayer, Lockhart early Tuesday night broke down and said he was ready to make a "full confession." Sheriff Hughes announced.

"I did it," Lockhart was quoted by the sheriff as admitting. "God knows why I did it. I guess it was the devil creeping out. All I want is a square deal. I know I'm going to die and I want to tell it all. You don't need to bring anybody else up here."

With answers coming in at every tip to the post office, the George White's "Scandals" contest opened Tuesday with very gratifying results.

For the benefit of some people who have asked just what is meant by scandal, let us give you one tip on what we mean, namely: "The Tea-Fut Done" scandal, a scandal that was made famous when some of our Washington politicians tried to "gyp" our Uncle Sam.

Coroner's Verdict Upholds Officers

Jury Declares Officers Duty-Bound in Hutson Killing

The shooting of Henry O. Hutson, 50, Prescott fugitive who died in Julia Chester hospital here from a police gun wound, was held justifiable, a verdict returned Tuesday afternoon by a Hempstead coroner's jury, said.

The verdict read: "We the jury investigating the death of Henry Hutson find that Hutson came to his death at the hands of Allice E. Pittman, and, or, Clarence Baker, duly commissioned and acting officers."

"We further find that said shooting of Hutson by the above mentioned officers was justified and was done in the performance of duty as officers."

The verdict was signed by Dr. F. D. Henry, A. L. Carlson, A. C. Moreland, Ed I. Reppan, Tom Wardlow, J. M. Puffie, Carl Smith, B. R. Hamm, W. L. Evans, C. S. Walker, Chester Harwell, Jett Williams and Dr. J. H. Weaver, Hempstead coroner.

Otis Bean, companion of Hutson who eluded officers at a highway viaduct one mile north of Hope where the shooting occurred Monday afternoon, apparently had made good his escape Wednesday. No trace of him has been found.

Bean and Hutson were sought by officers for a series of robberies in Nevada and Clark counties.

Convicts Replace Mules, Says Paper

4 Men Hitched to Each Planter, Declares Pine Bluff Commercial

FINE BLUFF, Ark.—(AP)—The Pine Bluff Commercial says Wednesday it has learned from reliable sources that convicts are being used instead of mules to draw corn-planters at Tucker Prison Farm.

Four men are "hitched" to each planter to pull it, and one convict drives them as he would a team of mules, says the paper.

The reason for the substitution of convicts for mules, the paper explains, is the shortage of feed for livestock.

A. G. Stedman, superintendent of the prison system, was reported out on the farm and could not be reached by telephone for a statement.

The Commercial says in a story signed by its editor, Walter D. Sorrells, Jr., that the use of convicts to take the place of mules was started several days ago, and in the last two or three days eight more planters drawn by men were put out in the field.

The planing is being done, says the paper, on Camp No. 2 prison farm.

City Inaugurates Its New Officials

Civic Family Sworn in Tuesday, Beginning New Year

Inauguration of new officers and the appointment of committees was the principal business transacted by the city council Tuesday night.

Mayor R. A. Boyett rendered the oath to City Attorney W. S. Atkins and City Clerk T. R. Billingsley in turn sworn in Alderman Roy Anderson, L. A. Keith, Dr. F. D. Henry and Dr. P. B. Carrigan.

Mr. Keith and Mr. Anderson are starting a second term. Dr. F. D. Henry is starting his first term, replacing Theo P. Witt from Ward Three. Dr. Carrigan, elected in the recent primary, replaces Ira Halliburton from Ward Four.

C. C. Spragins was re-appointed as a member of the Board of Public Affairs to serve two years. The board is to meet with the council once each month.

A motion was carried extending thanks to Ira Halliburton and Theo P. Witt, retiring aldermen, for their services rendered to the city. Committees were appointed as follows:

Water and Light—R. L. Gosnell, chairman, L. A. Keith, W. A. Lewis.

Police and Market—Luther Garner, chairman, Roy Anderson, R. L. Gosnell.

Sidewalk—Dr. P. B. Carrigan, chairman, Charles Taylor, Luther Garner.

Board of Public Affairs—C. C. Spragins, Lloyd Spencer.

On Trial

The pages of political history were turned back six years when Bishop James Cannon, Jr., militant Methodist leader, was called to Criminal Court in Washington to answer to the charge that he had "converted" to his own use some of the funds given him to fight Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 Presidential campaign. The bishop is shown leaving court after the opening session.

Rail Conference
 WASHINGTON.—(AP)—In a renewed attempt to settle the railroad wage dispute, President Roosevelt Wednesday conferred with the railway managers. The managers want to cut wages, while the employees want an increase.

Bankhead Bill to F. D.
 WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Only the signature of President Roosevelt is needed to put on the statute books the nation's first federal compulsory production control act—the Bankhead cotton bill.

The house Tuesday adopted the senate-approved conference report, 235 to 105 and sent to the White House the measure to force farmers to keep cotton production in the coming crop year at 10,000,000 bales.

In the brief debate it was charged by opponents led by Representative Busby, Democrat, Mississippi, that it meant an "irretrievable surrender" of the rights of farmers to control their own production.

Chairman Jones, Democrat, Texas, of the Agriculture Committee replied that "planless agriculture condemns our South and our farmers elsewhere to eternal poverty." Industry, he said, planned production to meet consumption needs and agriculture should do likewise.

In Original Form
 With few exceptions the bill went to the president as the house originally passed it, the senate having rejected on its controversial proposal to exempt the first six bales from the 50 per cent tax imposed on production in excess of quotas.

The measure was initiated by the Bankhead brothers of Alabama—senator and representative—after a roll call of cotton farmers showed that about 95 per cent favored the plan. Its advocates claim it will aid the vol-

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Educators Can Learn a Lesson From Latin-American Children

I have just discovered that the world is a big place. My knowledge of peoples and countries outside of this good land of ours has been derived from nice shiny illustrations in geography books to a large extent.

But this time it was different. A real ship piloted me to ports in Mexico, Central America, and South America, and there were stories in-land in which I had an opportunity to see for myself how these people live. For one thing they live in the sun, the poorer classes of all these places. Whether their houses are built of bamboo walls on three sides, as in Central America, and topped strangely enough by heavy red-tiled roofs, or built of adobe and cement around a central courtyard, one seldom sees the tenants under cover. They are mostly outside their even cook and eat outside with their odd stone stoves and wooden tables within ten feet of the family livestock, a horse, a mule, or a cow, perhaps all three, who could, by a stretch of the neck absorb a famale or tortilla or black-bean soup if the notion took them and they had the energy to move.

Children swarm the streets of the cities. Those in school sit behind open (but always barred) low windows, yet the doorways and wide halls open pleasantly to the world and stray dogs or curious travelers may wander in unmolested. Most buildings are one story high so the students must work and study and concentrate with the street noises not twenty feet away.

In almost every case, our guide and interpreter accented the work done by the government for the good of the children. Cars are limited to a crawling pace, not for the protection of the adult or the bumpy burro, but to safeguard the little fellow who suddenly steps outside his doorway to yell "hello" or "goodbye" in English and wave his hand, palm up, at the tourist who might be moved to throw a penny.

Hospitals are built for children in many places and more are being planned, in these lands between the good and the vertical sun. In San Salvador I saw one hospital built by the good angel of the city out of his own pocket, that accommodates one hundred and fifty children.

Mexico accents its children. Central America does it. The cities of Colombia are doing it. It impressed me because the information came gratuitously, and not because I had made special inquiry. No one knew I was an interested person.

Contented Children
The casual traveler might get the impression that these children sometimes need pity. But I watched family life closely. True little sister minded the baby, and perhaps another sister, as clean as an apple, worked beside her mother in the immaculate (open-air) coffee plant, nearby. But the calm faces of these children were content. The baby often naked and with a dusty little seat, was their baby. And what mother or father were doing was important because it meant food. There was food, and family unity that we have lost somewhat. Of course school laws are different in the different tropical towns, but I wonder, when compulsory education is universally adopted, if this family spirit will wane.

There are times when I look at our high-powered educational system with a shudder. Today the impression is strong. Can too much and too rigid schooling be causing disintegration of family life? I am beginning to think so.

Strikes Spread in Many Localities

Trolleys Idle in Nebraska, Iowa—Alabama Miners Walk Out

By the Associated Press

Street cars stood idle in the two cities of Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Ia., Monday night as the first major transportation strike was added to current employer-labor disputes.

Pickets demanding union recognition, higher pay, and reinstatement of 12 men discharged for union activities, stood armed with stones and sticks at all car burns. There was no violence, company officials sending non-striker home.

The number of unemployed coal miners in Alabama mounted to 17,500 as four additional mines, employing 3,500 men, closed down after disorders in the Birmingham area. Hundreds of strikers rioted, two negroes were injured, and the sheriff swore in 100 special deputies.

About 2,500 miners struck at three mines in the Shenandoah, Pa., district, demanding more pay, and 3,000 strikers tied up 200 glove factories about Gloversville, N. Y.

In the automobile labor discord at Detroit, leaders of organized labor issued an appeal for workers to await patiently the decision of the National Labor Board, and at the same time asked the board for speed.

At Dalton, Ga., 329 employees of the Dalton Real Silk Hosiery plant walked out on strike. Progressive miners at Harrisburg, Ill., voted to remain on strike until the Labor Board decided whether they will receive $4.50 or $5 a day.

Conferences were under way in the strikes of the Seaman Body Corporation at Milwaukee and the Nash automobile factories at Kenosha and Racine, Wis.

About 1,300 union hatmakers remained away from work at Danbury, Ct., demanding restoration of 1925 wage scales.

Sees Hot Springs as Paralysis Cure

Dr. Morris Fishbein Pays Arkansas Tribute on First Visit Here

By the Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK.—There is no reason why Hot Springs should not develop into a center for the treatment of infantile paralysis unexcelled by any other place in the world, Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago famous physician and medical writer, said Monday.

Dr. Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Society, spoke at the opening session of the fifty-ninth annual meeting of the Arkansas Medical Society. He also spoke Monday night at a capacity crowd at Little Rock Senior High School on "Fads and Quackery in Healing."

Dr. Fishbein never has visited Hot Springs, he said, and this is his first trip to Arkansas.

"But I intend to return solely for the purpose of visiting your famous health resort," he said. "I know a great deal about it, and I see no reason why it should not be developed into a great center for the treatment of infantile paralysis. It has the facilities, the hot water which is needed for the underwater exercise, and the climate."

The visitor's discussion of fads and quackery in healing was marked by considerable humor, but he was uncompromising in his attack upon charlatans who profit from the gullibility of human beings.

"There are three things in which the human race is particularly credulous," he said. "They are money, matrimony and medicine. The late P. T. Barnum said that there is a sucker born every minute. It has also been said that there is a crook born every hour to take care of 60 suckers."

"There are charlatans in every profession, but the most dangerous of all to the community is perhaps the charlatan of medicine. The medical charlatan has followers, not only among the unintelligent classes, but among the intelligent—those who have been educated beyond their intellects."

Dr. L. J. Kosinsky of Texarkana, president of the Arkansas Medical Society, introduced Dr. Fishbein and Governor Fulton, who spoke briefly on the duty of the medical profession to help protect the public from quacks and charlatans.

MRS. SID HENRY TELEPHONE 321

"Let the Flowers Bring You Some Sweet Thought Each Day."

We were impressed with the truth and the beauty and the great possibility expressed in the above lines, and would like to call your attention to the many beautiful flowers now blooming in the different yards and gardens throughout the city. If one could only keep their thoughts in harmony with the gorgeous colorful array of flowers on all sides, we will have found one of the secrets of happiness and contentment, for "My Lady Spring is here again." While South Carolina may have her Magnolia gardens, and California may boast of the gorgeous gardens of Santa Barbara, if one will only make a pilgrimage over our own town, they will find much beauty for inspiration. For at this time, some of our most sordid unattractive surroundings have their bright beauty spots either in a vivid bed of veronica, or a bed of tulips with their dashing spots of color.

In our pilgrimage of yesterday, we passed many yards where it seemed that while dire poverty was peeping in through the windows there, still remained that spirit that tries to keep in touch with the beautiful, and we had that feeling in our own heart, "That where we find that, is not lost."

beginning to fade with the April rains, but a number of beautiful bushes may be found at this time.

In discussing flowers, we find ourselves like the busy brook, "on and on forever." We urge that you make a pilgrimage over the city and "Let the flowers bring you some sweet thought each day."

A very delightful social affair of Tuesday was the bridge party given in the private dining room of Hotel Barlow with Mrs. D. L. Bush, Mrs. Fred Starn and Mrs. Mae Duffie as hostesses. Arranged in a beautiful setting of flowers were thirteen tables for bridge. Attractive favors went to Mrs. Comer Boyett, Mrs. R. B. Stanford and Mrs. G. A. Hobbs. Following the games the hostesses served a most tempting salad course, each plate being decorated with lovely pansy favors.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith have returned from Siloam Springs where they were called to attend the funeral services of Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. M. C. Smith, who passed away at her home in that city on Friday evening. Mrs. Smith belonged to one of the pioneer families of that section and is survived by her husband and eight children. The funeral service was conducted from the family home on Sunday afternoon.

As special compliment to Mrs. Oral Reeves, an April bride, Mrs. Ray Cumbe, Miss Joyce Beard, Mrs. Logan Bailey, Mrs. George Wilson and Mrs. Corbin Foster entertained at a miscellaneous shower on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Cumbe on East Third street. The rooms were decorated with a quantity of lovely flowers, arranged in vases and floor baskets, and the honoree's chair was marked with a huge bow of white material. After viewing the many beautiful and useful gifts an hour was spent in pleasant conversation and writing recipes for the bride's cook book, followed by tempting sandwiches and punch served by the hostesses.

The formal opening of Mary's Beauty Shop, was held on Tuesday afternoon from 2 until 7 by Mrs. Ray Cumbe at the Cannon Apartments on East Third street. Quantities of lovely flowers, including floor baskets of tulips, snapdragon, red and white carnations added their beauty to the natural setting of this very attractive and lovely shop. Mrs. Cumbe was assisted in receiving the numerous callers throughout the afternoon and evening by Mrs. Arthur Halbert and Miss Beatrice Formby. Refreshing punch was served.

Friends are indeed glad to see Dr. J. H. Weaver able to be out once more, after an illness of several weeks.

A most instructive and interesting program on "The New Crusade," will be given by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union at 2 o'clock, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Chandler on South Pine street, with Mrs. Jimmie Embree as joint hostess.

The Hope Garden club will hold their April meeting at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Black on North Louisiana street. Each member and all who are interested in beautifying their yards and the city are requested to come prepared to tell "How They Grow the Plant They Grow Best," also to bring seed or plants they want to exchange

Out-of-town relatives and friends attending the funeral services of W. Y. Foster, conducted from the family residence in this city on Tuesday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Foster of Shreveport, La. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bridwell of Tyler, Texas, Mrs. Lulu V. Stevens of Marshall, Texas, Mrs. Thos. C. McRae, Sr., Mrs. Mary Montgomery, Mrs. Jennie Carr Pittman, Duncan McRae and Horace Benis of Prescott, Duncan Brown of Arkadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Oglesby of Texarkana.

Mrs. Hosca Garret has returned to her home in Little Rock after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Mary Lemley.

Mrs. J. B. Koonce is spending the week with Mr. Koonce on the farm near Fulton.

The Woman's Missionary Society of First Baptist church held their regular monthly missionary program on Monday afternoon at the church, with Circle No. 3, Mrs. Hugh Jones, chairman, in charge of the program on "Awakening the World Vision." Mrs. Della White discussed the "Story of Carey's Missionary Call," and Mrs. J. T. Hicks read a paper on "American Baptists Awake." As a closing number Miss Virginia Phillips, Junior G. A., gave the Stewardship Declaration she will give in Bradley on May 1. Mrs. Charles Haynes closed the program with a prayer. During the business period, "Highlights From the State Convention" were given by Mrs. Gus Haynes, Mrs. Wallace R. Rogers and Mrs. M. J. Warwick. Mrs. Gus Haynes received special honor at a banquet on the night of April 11, for having finished the entire mission study course, being one out of six over the entire state.

Its provisions may be extended for a second year by presidential proclamation if two-thirds of the land owners, share croppers and tenants desire.

It levies a tax of 50 per cent of the current market price on cotton produced in excess of the quotas allotted on the basis of the average production in the past five years. The tax is not to be less than five cents a pound.

Long staple cotton is exempted in states in which production has not exceeded 250,000 bales any year in the last five years.

ments of tempestuous opera stars with an iron hand.

Married for 18 years to Frances Alda, a soprano at the Met, Gatti-Casazza's marriage was dissolved in 1928. He was 58 then, and people connected with the opera dismissed as absurd the constant rumor that their impresario was about to marry again.

Further, they asserted, Rosina Galli, the dark-eyed ballet mistress of the opera, was engaged to a man in her home city of Milan—the rumors connecting her with Gatti-Casazza just couldn't be true.

Dramatize the Beauty of Your Ankles sense and the bearded impresario slipped across the river to Newark and were married, leaving immediately for a honeymoon at Cannes. Gatti-Casazza was 60, Miss Galli 34.

Certainly nobody ever achieved love at 58 through a stormier life, a life lit by flashes of tragedy, of unconventional and of genius, than Frank Lloyd Wright.

Believed by many to be the outstanding American architect of the modern school, Wright's first marriage was rather conventional, only to be broken by Wright's "elopement" with the wife of a neighbor.

Tragedy Ends Romance

Tragedy came next, when a colored servant at his beautiful country home, Taliesin, went mad, set the house afire, and slaughtered with an ax Wright's wife, her two children, and four other occupants of the house, as they fled the flames.

Again Wright found love with a third wife, but this union descended into a mire of litigation, suits, and recriminations when he again fell in love, this time with a Montenegrin dancer, Olgivanna Milanov.

Securing his divorce with much difficulty, Wright at 58 launched into a fourth marriage, and with this love, which came to him at threescore, as a foundation, is attempting to resume the brilliant career which has been so sadly interrupted by the turbulence of his ventures into love.

Never Too Old for Love

Every day the examples multiply, and the "older generation" in open rebellion against the wave of "younger generation" stuff it has been hearing for the last decade, is bringing forth examples of love that only begin at 40, and of rosebuds that continue to be gathered long after the Maytime of life.

Samuel Martin, retired physician of Mount Holly, N. J., for instance, is honeymooning today with a 20-year-old bride, though he is well beyond the allotted threescore and ten years.

"I have heard," said wise Emerson, "that whoever loves is in no condition old."

at Shreveport occur too often.

It is one more argument for a nation-wide reform of American criminal procedure—a reform which, since it is a highly technical matter, lies almost entirely in the hands of the lawyers.

week's Liberty magazine:

He preached a gospel which men called too idealistic.

He said: "Love your enemies." Practical men have scoffed at His teaching. They have said: "In a competitive world you must be armed to fight your enemies. That is the safe way, the inexpensive way."

Practical men made and ran the World war.

Do you know how much the World war cost?

Its total cost to all participants was equivalent to $20,000 for EVERY HOUR SINCE JESUS OF NAZARETH WAS BORN.

The next war will be far more costly. It will probably result in the wreck of civilization.

Practical men have had their way for many generations.

It would be worth while to try HIS way.

It couldn't be MORE expensive.
